

PARTNER'S POV

“New Zealand is a country eminently suited to road trips. Traveling no more than a few hours in any one direction could bring you to a stunning beach, rugged alpine highlands or rolling wine country. Here at Seasonz, we schedule plenty of time to stop and admire the view, take photos and get to know the locals. Each enquiry from Andrew Harper Travel is uniquely developed and a personally designed itinerary is put together by our team.”

DEBBIE HAYSON
SEASONZ

TRAVEL OFFICE TIP

“I love to arrange a helicopter experience to truly experience the grandeur of the Fiordlands and the Alpine Mountain Surrounds. You will land in four pristine areas, different locations each trip, where you can walk along the wild west coast beaches, have a wonderful picnic, and, weather permitting, land on a glacier. When you experience Milford Sound by private helicopter, away from the commercial boats with upwards of 200 passengers, you experience absolute pristine wilderness. Then fly back to Queenstown to relax at your accommodation – Eichardt's Private Hotel, or Blanket Bay, or Matakauri Lodge, or Azur Lodge – all recommended by Andrew Harper Travel.”

JUDITH KITZES
ANDREW HARPER TRAVEL ADVISOR

NEW ZEALAND

WEST COAST & MILFORD SOUND

New Zealand is known for a great many things—hobbits, rugby and a phenomenal landscape of the breathtaking sort. From the depths of the Waitomo Glowworm Caves to the enchantingly blue Bay of Islands, it is significantly difficult to find a section of New Zealand that doesn't provide the setting for soon-to-be-treasured memories. But, for the setting of an epic road trip, look to the South Island's West Coast.

Stretching nearly 700 miles, the West Coast is what all drives aspire to be: dramatic in commanding your attention, a steady slew of ever-changing views and scenery. Stop in Westport for seal spotting, eel feeding in Hokitika, glacier hiking in Franz Josef—the adventures are as varied as a fruit salad, though the apex of your journey will certainly be Milford Sound. Milford Sound is the geographic echo of a long-ago colossal glacier—cliffs and fjords combine with mountains and waterfalls for a retreat with serene highs and lows. A half-day canoe trip is the perfect opportunity to soak up all of the surroundings. Out there on the water, the journey is refracted in a lens of greater meaning, elevating what was already a stellar drive to the point of pilgrimage.

PHOTOS

FUR SEAL, NEW ZEALAND

WATERFALL AT MILFORD SOUND,
NEW ZEALAND